Technical Projects

- CRUD_Demo [http://crud_demo.deanwalls.com] – Singlehandedly developed basic CRUD application. The back-end was created using Java and Spring Boot, while the front-end was created using JavaScript, CSS, HTML, and jQuery. This application is designed to allow users to create, read, update, and delete data entries seamlessly in a persistent H2 database, with an auto-incrementing Id field for each new entry. Operations like updates and deletions are efficiently managed by specifying an Id as a path variable. Deployed the project on a free cloud service and containerized it using Docker. Also integrated a bash/curl script into the Dockerfile so that application sends requests to itself to prevent it from being spun down due to inactivity.
